Dear Logu Ramakrishnan,

I regret to inform you that I am unable to approve your application for admission to the Graduate Program in Computer Science at the University of California, Riverside for the Fall 2025 term.

A number of factors are considered in evaluating each applicant, including the following: a student's undergraduate preparation, test scores, whether the research interests of faculty are relevant to those of the applicant, and whether an applicant can be accommodated by the department to which application is made.

Unfortunately, it is not possible for the university to accept all who apply, and each department must screen applications carefully to find the best qualified students. For this reason, many excellent applicants must be denied admission.

If you have questions, the academic department to which you applied may be able to further explain specific reasons for your denial. I sincerely hope that you will be able to pursue your academic training at another institution.

Regards,
